Recommended Sabbatical Leave Guidelines for the Local Church

A sabbatical leave provides an ordained minister an opportunity to reflect on his call to ministry and relationship with God and God's people. It is expected to be beneficial both to the pastor and the church he serves. The following are guidelines for sabbaticals:

There are various kinds of sabbatical leaves:

- 1) Study Leave...
- 2) Rest and Spiritual Renewal Leave...
- 3) Service Leaves...
- 4) Special Assignment...
- 5) Pastoral Exchange...

Length: One month of sabbatical time is granted for each completed year of ministry.

- 1) Sabbatical benefits begin to accumulate during the first year of ministry but can only be activated following the third year of service.
- 2) Sabbaticals should be granted at regular intervals, preferably within four to seven year cycles, instead of after extended periods greater than seven years.
- 3) Vacation time shall not be considered as part of the sabbatical benefit, however, vacation time could be added to a sabbatical agreement.
- 4) Participation in short seminars or conferences throughout the year shall not be considered a part of the sabbatical time.

Specific Agreements: Persons interested in a sabbatical should make application to the church board to which they are accountable at least six months prior to the planned absence from ministry. This application should include a statement of goals for the intended sabbatical, an outline of proposed activities, and a rationale as to how these activities will help them reach their goals.

Remuneration: During any agreed upon sabbatical time, monthly salary, housing and benefits will continue at the usual rate. Grant monies received from other sources for salary, housing and benefits shall be forwarded to the church.

Implementation: This sabbatical policy shall normally become part of the salary and benefits package negotiated at the time the ministering person is engaged. The maximum number of years that can be credited toward the sabbatical program retroactively at the point at which the program is adopted is six years.

7. Church Board shall require that the day's offerings shall be deposited following the morning service(s) or the offerings placed in the church safe until after the Sunday evening offerings have been received. The person responsible to deposit monies shall absolutely not take the money home with them so as to be deposited at a more convenient time or at a later date.
