

Where are you on the financial generosity ladder of discipleship?

Some Caveats for interpreting the Generosity Ladder:

- 1- Understand your finances are a picture of your priorities. Your checkbook is a reflection of your heart.
- 2- Understand that it is never about the "total" of your gift, it's about the spirit of your gift. Some who give the smallest "total" amount make the greatest sacrifices. Some who give the most struggle the least with a total. That's why we use percentages. That's a much better way to consider your sacrificial giving.
- 3- It's OK to admit you're off the ladder. We'd love to discreetly help you get more financially healthy through discreet coaching and/or small groups related to financial health and sustainability. Please complete that portion of the pledge card for more assistance.
