Living Stewardship

In today's first reading, we hear Samuel respond eagerly, "Here I am!" each time the Lord calls him. May we, too, be listening for the call of God in our lives and be ready to say like the psalmist, "Here am I, Lord; I come to do your will."

See 1 Samuel 3:4; Psalm 40

Mk 1:14-20

When I started in campus ministry, I was fortunate to meet a wonderful priest who had worked with college students for many years. I watched him carefully on Sundays and at student gatherings, picking up valuable information about how to talk to students, conduct myself professionally, and bring out the best in others and in myself.

Over the years we worked together, I observed many campus ministers—all age ranges, lay and ordained—seeking him out for advice and counsel. I referred more than a few. I also enjoyed our conversations and nearly always left our meetings with more wisdom than when I started.

I wonder what Andrew and the other disciples thought when John called Jesus "the Lamb of God." Whatever it was, they must have seen in Jesus someone who could answer their questions or give them something they were lacking. Maybe they saw a person their teacher admired and decided to seek his wisdom for themselves.

Whatever it was, something compelled them to follow Jesus, and Jesus' own invitation to "come and see" whetted their curiosity and desire even more.

Today we might call that the impulse of the Spirit, who draws us to Christ even when we're not sure why. The challenge for us is to have the courage to follow Jesus, ask where he's staying, and walk with him even if we can't see where it will lead us.

Our desire to stay with the Lord is, in itself, our comfort and our joy. †

Ponder and Pray

Are you named after a saint or someone in particular?

If so, how does that saint or person inspire you?

Lord, draw me close to your heart that I may come to know and love you more deeply.

A Word from Pope Francis

This is a lesson for each one of us....If we let ourselves be led by the Holy Spirit, if we are able to mortify our selfishness to make room for the Lord's love and for his will, we will find peace, we will be builders of peace and will spread peace around us.
